ONCE UPON A TIME THERE WAS A CHRISTMAS

What was the holiday preparation like in the happy times of peace in the capital? Where was the first public Christmas tree erected and when did this custom become common in civilian homes? I wonder what went under the tree and where did the parents shop?

We will recall the Christmas "market" of old times and the old customs on our walk in Budapest, in fact, we will talk about the holidays of the royal families, and we will also gossip about what the crown princes gave each other as gifts!
As Christmas approaches, we invite you to a special and unforgettable experience: a walk in Budapest, where we fly back in time and recall the magic of Christmases 100-200 years ago. Imagine yourself walking through the streets of the city center, among the old buildings. The streets were beautifully decorated, the shop windows glittered with gorgeous Christmas decorations, and the smell of cinnamon and cookies wafted through the air. It's like falling into Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol!

If you want to take part in a special and fun Christmas program, then join our walk! We guarantee that you will have an unforgettable experience, and that you will even be touched by the spirit of Christmas.
